ADVICE

TO THE Honourable Society of HIBERNIANS,

My Dear Countrymen and Brother Adventurers.

AS untimely Fate has ordained my Stay here among you to be but very short, I thought it incumbent on me, for the Preservation of that beloved Honour, which we have so justly acquired, and for the Pleasure and Happiness of the true Lovers of it, to lay before you the following weighty Affairs, worthy your Consideration.

First, With a bleeding Heart, I mention the miserable and low State our dear Society is reduced to, by admitting such great Numbers of our Countrymen into the Society; whose Abilities have not been capable to propagate that valuable Reputation we have so long acquired.

Secondly, To prevent so destructive an Evil, let me advise you, my dear Countrymen, to examine the Abilities of every Man before he is registered a Member, and if he has a Sufficiency to maintain our long established Character, he will, by an indefatigable Tendernefs and Care to the English Ladies of large Fortunes, redress your present Calamities, by cultivating those valuable Talents which Nature has kindly provided him with.

Thirdly, That as Oeconomy will greatly contribute to the future Welfare of our Honourable Society, I think it will be necessary, for the Support and Grandeur of every Member, that according to the Success of their

their honest Endeavours, each Member should, agreeably to the true Intent and Meaning of the Society, be bound to remit one Fourth of the Fortune thus acquired, for the Support of the Society, to be expended in Dress and Equipage, and then if possible by the most prevailing Means, force their Wives to go and settle in our Country, as a Retaliation for the many Absentees now residing in England, who spend their Fortunes in Luxury and Ease, regardless of their Country's Ruin.

Fourthly, Let me earnestly intreat you as our Numbers are greatly decreased, by sudden Deaths, and many, by various unhappy Accidents, being obliged to quit the Country, to have a fresh Supply of able bodied Men, with large Dimensions, immediately imported into this Kingdom, for the Use of those Widows and Maiden Ladies of very great Fortunes, (a List of whom I have sent you here inclosed, and their different Habitations) that now lie unoccupied and neglected. And that that you may flourish according to the Magnitude of your different Parts and Capacities, they are distinguished by their Classes, that so you may draught a proper Number of able Members, who by a genteel Address, and modest Affurance, peculiar to us, may oblige them, and enrich the Society.

'Tis true Gentlemen, there have been many great Deaths of late; but then the Conclusion of this ——— P——e has stocked the Town so full of gay young Fellows, that if my Intreaty is not complied with, but few Things will be open to you, and the Society will drop into eternal Oblivion.

Gentlemen,

You may observe that I have mentioned nothing as yet inconsistent with the Honour peculiar to our Nation, for as the List I have laid before you, consists of none but Ladies of Virtue and Family, so I would advise you to marry and propagate their Species in our Country: But if by the Obligation of a Will,

or

For the Obstinacy of a Parent, you can't arrive to that Honour, I think it but reasonable for you to oblige the Lady to the utmost Inch of your Abilities, and leave it to her Generosity to reward you to the best of her Power. I believe I need not make Use of many Arguments, to induce you to put yourselves in proper Order for your own Pleasure and Preservation; but a good Habit of Body carries great Strength with it, and seldom fails of Success, therefore as you so sensibly feel your present Distresses, lay hold of those Things that offer, and make you a rich and happy People. And if you only look back for a few Years, you will be encouraged with the Success which some of our straggling Countrymen have had; who with a small Stock of Learning, and vigorous Constitution, have crept into the Arms of many a fine Woman, and an affluent Fortune.

But Gentlemen, I think it will not be improper to observe to you some Rules which will greatly conduce to your Ease and Facility of gaining the Affections of the English Ladies, besides a personal Appearance: From Experience I speak it, (who have known of almost all Nations) that none ever produced such a Variety of Tempers in Love, and which from the best Observation I have made, proceeds from their different Complexions. It may indeed be accounted for in some Measure, by their cohabiting with Men of all Nations; for seemingly it is a Matter of Indifferency, when they marry, what Country or Nation the Man is of, provided he has promising Abilities; for sometimes I have seen a fine Woman married to a Blackamoor, and a mulattoe Generation handed down to Posterity; an Instance hardly to be paralleled in Europe. Besides the French frequently dance into their Favour by sprightly Grimace and Address; and when married to a Lady of a natural gloomy Disposition, peculiar to the English, produce a sprightly cheerful Generation. Thus by the Spaniard, they acquire Pride; by the Italian, Jealousy; the Dutch, Covetousness; by us, which exceeds ceeds all, a modest healthful Generation and Generosity; for no Nation carries a better Face, or makes so good a Figure abroad as we do. From Observation you may learn to address them; for some will fall chearfully into your Arms, while others will tremble like a Dove in the Talons of a Hawk, and are ensnared by their own Timidity. The first you will make an easy Conquest of, for their Passion will soon get the better of their Reason; they will give up all they have in the World, and desert the dearest Relations they have for your Persons. The second, are of a more delicate Nature, and must be treated with great Tenderness; besides 'tis necessary to use the most extraordinary Address and Circumspection where the have been carefully bred, or are under the Care of rigorous Parents or old Nurses, who never trust them out of their Sight; so that Access to them will be difficult, but by your Dilligence, you may succeed, and amply reward yourselves; for all your honest Endeavours, for on the Death of a Parent these poor Thins gain the Liberty of going now and then to a Play-house as well as a Church, and are easily known by their being more than ordinarily affected; for the recluse Life they have led, makes them quite Strangers to the World consequently more credulous and liable to be imposed on; and indeed by their Restraint and Regularity, the strongest Sparks of Love are implanted in them, which when kindled, burn with a more lasting Flame, and are hardly to be extinguished by the worst Usage you can give them; besides they have never known the Value or Use of their Fortunes, therefore part with them freely, and never insist on that mercenary ridiculous Custom of a Settlement, which has made more bad Wives in England than in any Nation beside. As for the Widow Ladies you must handle their Affairs in a different Manner, you will find them affected according to their different Ages, Taste being joined to Experience; they won't want that Industry to be prevailed on, the greatest Difficulty will be, to get the better of their Covetousness, which is very very strongly grafted in them, and increase with their Years, which must be attended with some Expence at first, but which will afterwards fall again into your Hands; for it will be expedient, to prevent their Suspicion of your Necessity to make them some handsome Presents, which have the best Effect, and dazzle them with your seeming Generosity to trust their Persons and Fortunes in your Possession, which you'll know how to appropriate afterwards to your own Use.

There are one Sett of Ladies I would have you be particularly mindful of, and those are what I call Damashe's o na Fares; these have fixed Companions, but then their Abilities are so insignificant, that makes them both hateful and odious, and the first Opportunity they procure a Separation, to have it in their Power to please themselves; these are of a grasping Nature, therefore I beg for the Honour of the Society, not to suffer one Member to enter their Doors without Inspection, and being thought capable of undergoing going a Repetition of Business. There are others that do live with their fixed Companions, but are of the same Nature with the former, therefore I likewise call them Damashe's or naFare's.

Thus have I laid before you, all that I think is necessary, or can conduce to preserve the Society from immediate Ruin, and beg you will be aiding and assisting each other to push your Matters so, that you may have a happy Issue; and I shall now take leave of you, my dear Brothers, with the Advice of St. Paul, try all things, and hold fast that which is good, and Success attend you.

Orders and Resolutions

OF THE

Brave and Heroic Society of Hibernian Adventurers, for incorporating and manufacturing of British Commodities.

Veneris, Nov. 1750

Resolved Nem. Con.

THAT this honourable Society being truly sensible of the good Advice given to us by our dear deceased Brother, do with Souls full of Joy implore the Blessings of our Saint

Saint upon him for his Wisdom and Goodness to us; and that a Petition be prepared and sent to the head Governor of the Society at Dublin, for a Draught to be immediately embarked for England.

Ordered,

That Mr. Fælix Macquiere, Mr. Cæsar O'Neal, Mr. Pompey O'Connor do prepare the same, and report it to the Society at the next General Assembly.

Ordered,

That our dear deceased Brother's glorious Advice with the List annexed, be forthwith printed; and that Copies be given only to ourselves, and that no Soul do presume to shew it to any Body else, but those of our Nation.

Ordered,

That the Draught shall, as soon as they arrive in London, rendezvous at this Cabbin; and here appoint such Houses, as they shall think convenient, to keep Registers, to the true Intent and Meaning of this Society; so that any single Lady, by sending her Name, may be immediately removed from her Friends and Guardians, to a convenient Apartment and the greatest Care taken of her.

Ordered,

That several of our Nation, in London, being known to live in good Reputation, we do order them for the present, to keep the Registers; till more can be provided, (viz.) Patrick M'Guire, on Cork-Hill, near Pall-mall; Owen O'Bourn, at his Ale-Cabbin, Covent-Garden; and that the said Register-keepers, for their Encouragement be allowed Two-pence per Head for every Person of Quality, and One penny for every Spinster; and in Case of Success, a handsome Gratuity besides.

Resolved

Resolved however,

That several Ladies and Spinsters, who may not be willing to enter their Names, in a public Manner for sometime, by sending a Penny-post Letter, directed to our dear Friend, Timothy Stone, at the Globe in Market-Lane, Pall-mall, may depend on having it kept an intire Secret, be placed first in the next List, which shall be printed, and distributed amongst the Members of the next Embarkation.

Ordered,

That this Society be adjourned 'till Thursday the seventeenth Day of January; and then come provided with Money, to make a Subscription to discharge our Debts, and for furnishing whatever is necessary for

our Friends Equipment, as it is expected by that Time several Ladies will fly from the Country to London.

M. Fitzpatrick, Secretary.
